

NEVADA CREAMERIES.

The Nevada Creamery Company is talking of buying up the Gould Creamery near Reno. The creamery business is certainly booming in this section, to an extent most gratifying to all resident Nevadans. It means a great deal more ready money in the pockets of the ranchers, a home market for their crops, and a more prosperous business basis in all directions. Ranchers who have to sell a hay or grain crop before they can pay hired men, taxes, grocery and other bills, necessarily work a hardship on those they owe and handicapped themselves. If a certain crop failed on which the rancher has depended, the unfortunate has often to mortgage his ranch to meet demands. That means hard struggles for years and in many cases a loss of the ranch eventually.

Hay is almost a sure crop, and with plenty of hay to feed his cows, any rancher can make a fair income at selling milk.

The creameries pay the ranchers promptly each month, which makes it practically a cash basis, and there is no fear of overstocking the market. Fruit and vegetables, being perishable, are sometimes so cheap as to be hardly worth the handling, but butter and cheese are always in demand.

A creamery in one of our cultivated valleys is of more lasting and substantial value to the majority of citizens than a mining camp on the mountain side.

The APPEAL has always advocated the pursuit of agriculture in Nevada, and hails with glad speed every industry which tends in that direction. Let us secure the settlement of farmers and provide a market for them, and our boom is assured.

Justice Bradley of the United States Supreme Court died at 6:15 Friday morning. His death was not unexpected, as it was known for some months that he was far from being well. An attack from the grip last spring left him in a much debilitated condition, from which he seemed unable to rally. During the greater part of the present term of the Court he was unable to be present. With his declining years and the cold and nip weather prevailing it was impossible for him to recover. Two days ago he rallied and thought he might shake off the illness, but yesterday he began sinking.

The funeral arrangements, in accordance with the wishes of the dead Justice, will be quiet. Private services will be held at his late residence Sunday afternoon, and the remains will then be taken to Newark N. J. where interment will take place Monday.

The Supreme Court adjourned immediately after assembling until next Tuesday.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One thousand Danes are on the point of coming hither from Denmark to start a large dairy business on lands along the Walker river. The advance party of these people has put up two large creameries and has been guaranteed special low rates by the Carson & Colorado and Southern Pacific railroad companies. They intend to put the butter and cheese produced by them on the San Francisco market.

In speaking of DeYoung's election as president of the Press League, Arthur McEwen says: He will be in the United States Senate yet. When a man who never wrote a line in his life can get himself made head of the Press Clubs of the country, the responsibilities of statemanship have no terrors for him.

The largest opal in the world is owned by Juan Goldman and is now on exhibition in San Francisco. It came from a mine in Guerrero, Mexico. It is of the species known as fire opal and is supposed to weigh 700 carats with a value placed at $10,000.

Bismarck is what in Germany they call a "chain smoker," that is, he smokes from morning till night without a break, lighting one cigar with the end of the other.
